

There is significant evidence from other country's attempts to use Broadband over Power Lines that interference to the Amateur Radio service and other radio services is likely. I suggest that any proposed rule require a small pilot project to complete successfully before wide-spread deployment of this technology is permitted. Amateur Radio, AM Broadcast radio and government HF radio services should all be involved in the pilot project to determine the likelihood of interference if BPL goes forward.